

case study

Designed by Kaplan Thompson Architects, this house blends beautiful design with all the elements of a passive house. The house complements the landscape and allows stunning views of Norway Lake and the Western Maine mountains. In addition to comfortable and beautiful living areas, the home also includes an endless pool for year-round swimming.

	2
	2
	3

"Designing and building a new, energy efficient home had been our dream for years, and the incredibly talented crew at Maine Passive House was able to make it happen."

specs

Location: Norway, ME
 Year Completed: 2017
 Gross Floor Area: 1,989 square feet
 Architect: Kaplan Thompson Architects

features

Fossil fuel-free building
 Zehnder fresh air ventilation system with heat recovery
 Super-insulated double stud walls
 Triple-glazed Logic windows
 Airtight construction (0.23ACH/50)
 Morsø wood stove
 Low-VOC finishes

